LET U. S. FOOT CAMPAIGN BILLS, BORAH'S PLAN

Charges Gifts Sway Government.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special)—Senator William E. Borah (Rep., Idaho) tonight climaxed a slashing attack against lawlessness and political corruption with a proposal that the government pay the legitimate cost of the campaigns of all political parties in order to check huge campaign contributions by special interests.

Such a plan, the senator asserted, would eliminate graft in the selection of public officers and prevent a repetition of the campaign of 1926, "when there was a deliberate and well organized effort to buy the nomination for the presidency."

Quasi-Governmental Bodies.
Political parties are quasi-governmental institutions," Senator Borah said. "It seems a defect in our system that we allow such institutions to accept begging for or accepting great gifts and donations, which, if given to an individual in public office, would be denounced as a bribe and the worst form of corruption."

It would be infinitely better for people of this country and it would come back to them a thousand times in the benefits of a clean public service to have these political parties restricted to quasi-governmental institutions and at least at least of the government taking care of the actual ultimate cost of the campaign."

Senator Borah's remarks, in which he only flayed corruption in politics but denounced "those who attempt to make this prohibition amendment a political letter by seeking to modify it," were delivered at a banquet attended by members of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand, which met here today in the interests of law enforcement. The Idaho senator was one of a number of senators who during the day and night called for better enforcement of all laws.

Robins Upholds Dry Act.
At a luncheon Col. Raymond Robins of Chicago discussed Al Smith, George E. Brennan of Illinois, and Gov. Nichols of Maryland, accrediting them with the utmost sincerity in their political stands. Col. Robins said he had been against the eighteenth amendment before it was approved, but that it must be enforced now that it is law.

In his address, Senator Borah asserted that neither abolition of the dry primary nor punishing of individuals who accept huge campaign contributions will solve the problem now faced in this country.

"We are now passing through—I hope we are passing through—a period of unparalleled corruption, direct or consequential, in American politics," Senator Borah said. "The employment of fabulous sums of money for the purpose of controlling elections in public office have made our days of prominence in perverted public service. The conditions are serious now and our treatment of the evil bids to be correspondingly hesitant and ineffective."

Calls It Borealis System.
Then, after a criticism of complacency in the face of corruption, he said: "The thing with which we must contend is a system of corruption of politics which, if continued, will in time seriously affect our whole fabric of government. I maintain our present deplorable and humiliating situation is the legitimate fruit of the practice of the last thirty years—the inevitable harvest of our own deliberate negligence."

The senator referred, but not by name, to Samuel Insull's vast primary expenditure in behalf of Senator Elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois.

A gentleman in Chicago, interested in certain lines of business, contributes heavily to a friend's campaign, who is in a position to serve his interests. This is fundamentally the basis of all these big campaign contributions.

"It was and is no different, had it been and is indefensible, as it is, from competing contributions of those vitally concerned with tariff duties, the reduction of income taxes, the enforcement of strict laws and like matters, as we are in this campaign. We continue to tolerate this practice because during the last

500 INVESTORS FACE LOSS; SEEK TWO PROMOTERS

Only $15,000 Left for Creditors.

An investigation of the affairs of the Commonwealth Reserve fund, 110 South Dearborn street, a $1,000,000 corporation dealing in investment securities, was started last night by Assistant State's Attorneys Harold Levy and Emmett Byrne, after they had been told by Miss Nettie Buell, 5104 Harper avenue, the bookkeeper, that less than $100 is now the bank balance of the organization.

Defective Sergeant John Murphy and Joseph Whitelaw made an unsuccessful search last night for G. M. Meeker, recently ousted as president of the company, and for C. C. Woodmansee, first vice president and treasurer. The company is said to have sold about $550,000 of its stock to approximately 500 small investors. Its present assets do not exceed $15,000, according to an official. The wife of the former president was brought from her home in Highland Park last night and questioned by the prosecutors in the county building.

Search in Vain for Paid.

She said that she has not heard from her husband for some days, except to receive a letter through another man saying that he would communicate with her later. Woodmansee, who also lives in a new home in Highland Park, could not be located by the detective.

Franklin and Attorney William C. Lindsay, who at the request of 500 stockholders have been trying for several weeks to straighten out the financial affairs of the institution, said that they could hold out little hope that the investors would be able to salvage much of their investments.

From a cursory examination of the books Attorney Lindsay said that the difficulties of the corporation appeared to be the result of bad investments and too high an operating expense.

Charge Return Guaranteed.

Prosecutors Levy and Byrne, however, charged that the officials of the concern guaranteed a return of 6 percent and sometimes more to buyers of the stock and that money from new sales was used to pay dividends on outstanding certificates.

At the outset of the business, Mr. Lindsay said, the company first dealt exclusively in commercial paper and later branched out to finance other lines of industry and farm mortgages in the northwest, had a big surplus because dividends were paid only in script, which was applied on new stock. When the blue sky law commission required the concern to comply with the law and pay in cash, the difficulties started. It was said, Miss Buell declared that her books show a deficit for a year or more, but still, it is charged, the concern continued to sell stock guaranteeing dividends.

Among the projects which the company is said to have started are the construction of the Ambassador hotel at Akron, O., which, according to Mr. Lindsay, has not progressed beyond the excavation for the foundation.

Christian Scientists Invited.

Most of the investors, it is said, are members of the Christian Science church in moderate circumstances. According to an official, a specialty was made of selling stock to persons of this faith. Many of the small investors, it was reported, had put their life savings into the stocks of the company, which was notified in December that the usual dividend would not be forthcoming. This occasioned uneasiness among the investors and meetings were held at regular intervals. Finally Meeker was ousted as president and replaced by Austin McConnell. Then Attorney Lindsay was called in and asked to straighten out affairs, he said.

Baldits Nameless Horror.

After torturing Henry Everett and his wife of Glen View for three hours with lighted cigars on their bare flesh until they revealed the hiding place of their valuables, three armed bandits last night left the couple bound and gagged with wire and escaped with jewelry, cash and negotiable bonds valued at more than $3,000.

Everett, who is 40 years old, and a wealthy contractor, and his wife, Mary, live in a large country home on the Glen View road, near Morton Grove. Last night they attended a theater in Elmhurst, returning home after 9 o'clock. They drew up to their home and left their automobile, the bandit, who apparently had been following them, driving it. Brandishing revolvers and rifles, they forced the couple into the rear of the house, locked the doors, and demanded to know the hiding places of their valuables.

Baldits Torturing Couple.

The Everetts were defiant and one of the bandits seized an ice pick and jabbed it into Mrs. Everett's neck and arms in separate incisions and the torture began. Mrs. Everett's neck and arms were seared in more than twenty places with lighted cigarettes and cigars. At intervals the robbers would jab her flesh with the ice pick and kick and strike her, demanding all the time to know where her valuables were hidden.

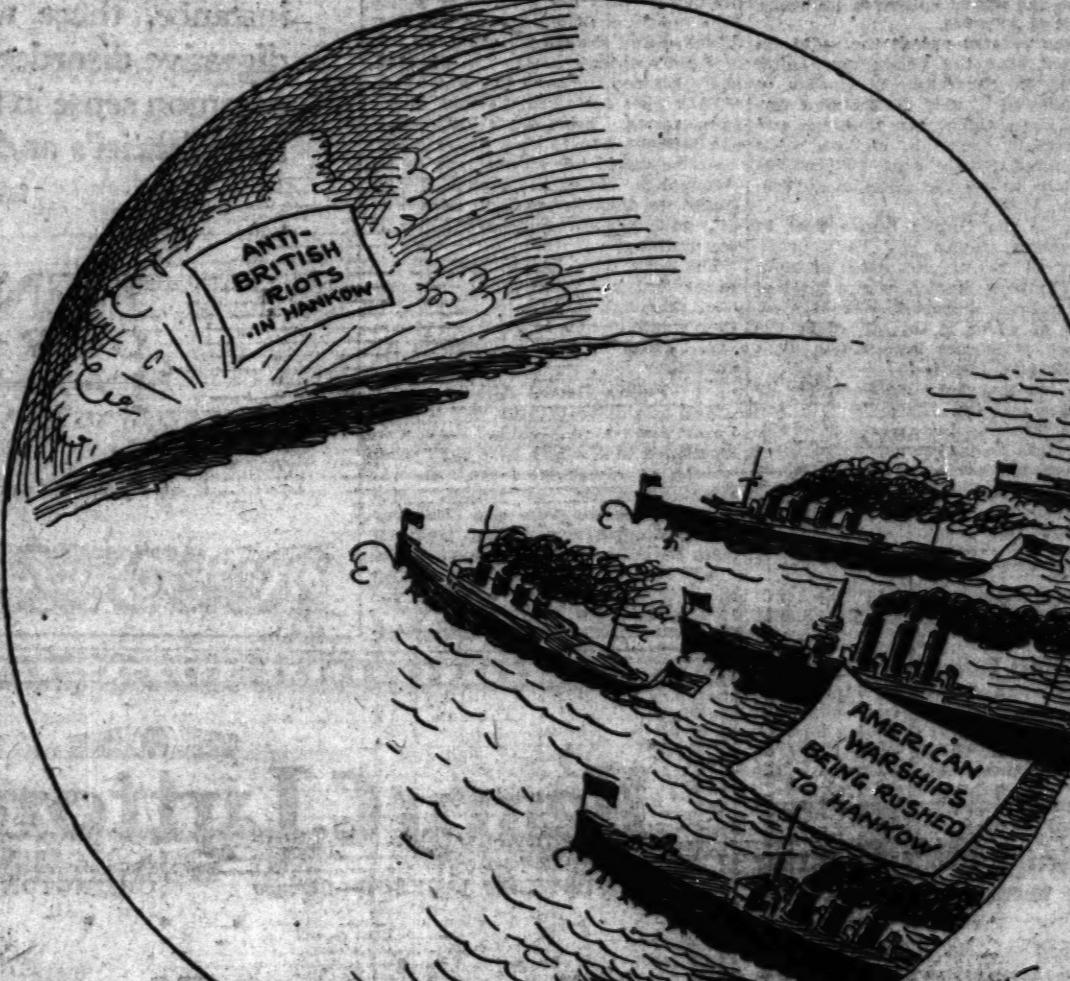

"I die before I tell," she repeated again and again. Finally her anguish became so great she broke down, and revealed where her jewelry could be found. In the meantime her husband was being similarly tortured in the adjoining room, but his injuries were less serious than those of his wife.

At the last meeting Monday night, which is reported to have been a stormy night, the stockholders are said to have threatened criminal action against some of the officials and yesterday a complaint was made to First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gor-

Critical Thieves Steal School's Best Paintings

Burglars with a critical knowledge of art early yesterday broke into the Pierce public school, at 1423 Bryn Mawr avenue, and made away with six paintings valued at $1,700—the only six of any considerable value in the building.

The burglary was discovered by John Grant, the janitor of the school, when he arrived to open the building. He found some, thirty-odd prints and other pictures of little value scattered about the corridors and on the floors of the rooms, while the six that were worth from $200 to $300 each were worth.

"Every painting in the main corridor was down," said Detectives Carmody and Rile. "They must have selected carefully. We couldn't have told the difference between some that were left on the floor and some that were stolen. At least one of the burglars must have had the eye of a connoisseur."

If the owner of the house is in a hard fix so is the mistress. The children's malady has taken its toll.

The mistress is, in most cases, locked in. She may not even cross her threshold to walk about her yard.

Information coming from the physicians of the suburb last night was to the effect that the maid had its cubit broken.

HOUSE VOTES FOR NEW DIRIGIBLE; HITS SMALL NAVY

Big Battle Over Cruisers to Come Today.

(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special)—A House committee voted at the hour of adjournment during a general attack on budget bureau recommendations for naval appropriations which considerably obtained an initial allotment toward the construction of a new dirigible to replace the Shenandoah and failed by only a narrow margin to override the budget provision for furtherance of the navy's five year aviation program.

The attempt by the "big navy" group to hold the appropriation for the heavier-than-air building program, now $2,145,000 recommended by the budget bureau to the $12,000,000 required to build the year's quota of 312 planes, was defeated in the committee of the whole house by only fifteen votes. Earlier in the afternoon, the dirigible amendment was adopted by a vote of 132 to 69.

Order Flight Scheduled Today.

The big fight of the whole controversy over the condition of the United States navy in comparison with the navies of the world is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, when Representative Wilson (Rep., Conn.), the Republican leader, will offer an amendment to provide funds to start the construction of a new dirigible which originally authorized in 1924 but ignored by the budget bureau in its recommendations.

The Wilson amendment, which is admittedly in conflict with President Coolidge's budget message advising deferment of naval construction pending the possibility of a second armament conference, is designed to be a compromise between the "no money" group and the "big money," and is said to satisfy neither, so a lively fight is in prospect.

Recent Budget Dictation.

The big navy members are unwilling to accept the compromise if it means a reduction in the number of new cruisers to be authorized in the Butler bill, which already has been approved by the President, from 16 to 7. Also in this group is another which, in addition to its inclinations toward a better navy, holds a resentment against budget bureau or executive interference with the realization of programs or policies determined by congress.

Inasmuch as the Goodyear company at Akron, O., will be a prominent bidder for construction of the dirigible, if too many ships are finally ratified, and has brought to this country practically the entire force of German workmen who built the Zeppelins, the Ohio delegation took a leading part in today's movement to overrule the President, the budget bureau and the appropriations committee.

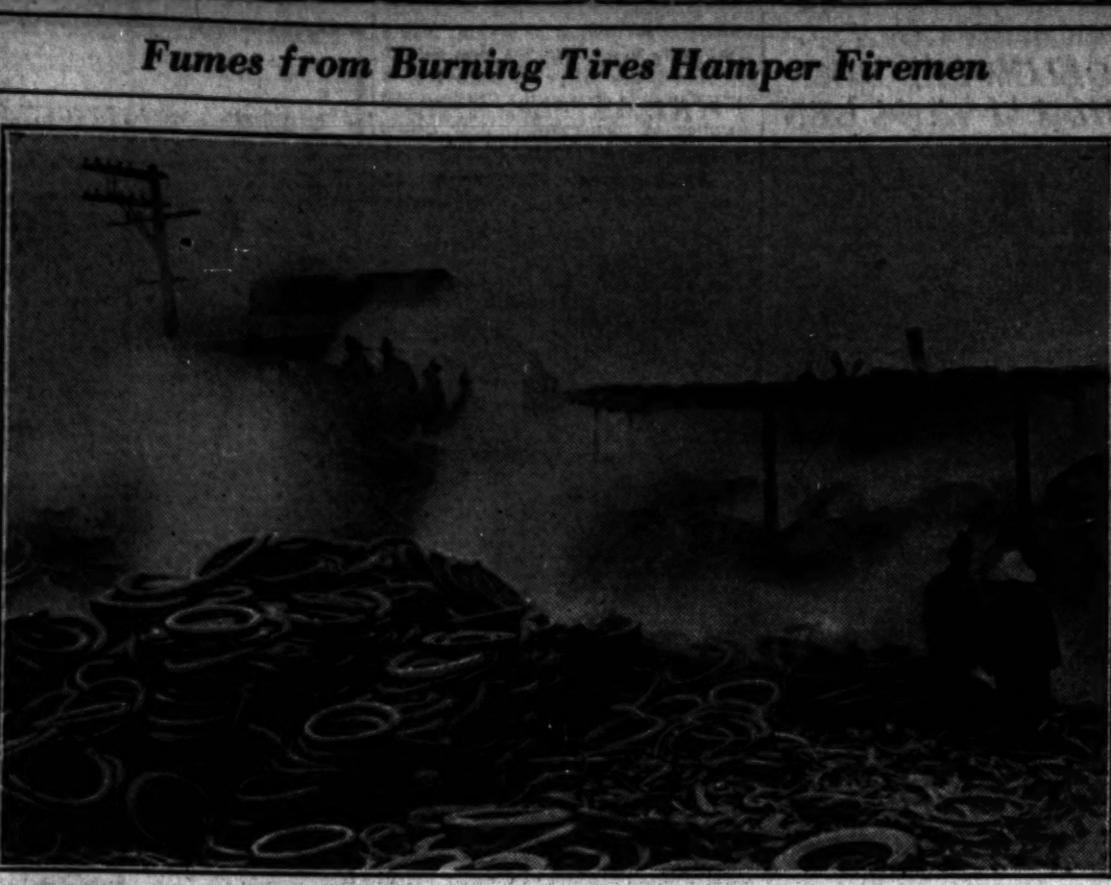

Fight for Dirigible.

The amendment providing $200,000 to begin construction of the dirigible, the total cost of which is to be limited to $4,500,000, and which will be nearly three times as large as the Shenandoah, was offered and advocated by Representative Begg (Rep., O.), ordinarily a champion of administration agreement and actually an assistant representative.

Mr. Begg read impressively from the constitution that congress is charged with the responsibility of maintaining the national defenses and making provisions for the maintenance of an adequate navy and army. "I challenge any man anywhere," he asserted, "to show me a line in that valuation of $200,000 which does not elsewhere curtail the right, authority or privilege, or releasing that responsibility."

Begg a Vigorous Pleader.

NEW YORK SALE OF WRIGHT'S ART SURVIVES A WRIT

GEN. BUTLER CALLS DRY LAW "FOOL PIECE OF CLASS LEGISLATION"

Wife's Attachment Suit Halts by Agreement.

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special]—The two day auction sale of the noted Japanese color print collection of Frank Lloyd Wright, the Chicago architect, began tonight at the Anderson Art galleries after legal proceedings instituted by Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright, whom the architect is suing for divorce, had threatened for a time to prevent the sale.

Just before 3 o'clock, the hour at which the widely advertised sale was to begin, John Spencer, local attorney for Mrs. Wright, appeared at the Anderson galleries with a warrant of attachment for the estate of Wright, $100,000. A. J. H. McGrath, attorney for the galleries, appeared and asked that Mrs. Wright's attorneys file a bond of $100,000 to protect the expected proceeds of the sale.

Compromise Effect.

A compromise was effected by Mr. Spencer permitting the sale to proceed on the understanding that the disposition to be made of the proceeds be left to settlement by the New York courts.

Tonight's legal action added one more complexity to the difficulties surrounding Mr. Wright and his second wife. Mr. Wright is now in New York, while Mrs. Wright is in Minnesota, where he was found with Miss Olga Milonoff, described as a Montenegrin dancer.

The Mann act charge was inspired by Vlademar Hinzenberg, a Chicago architect and the divorced husband of the dancer, who was concerned about his nine year old daughter, who was with Wright and Miss Milonoff.

BRUCE DECLARES YANKS, BRITISH PEACE BULWARK

Australian Premier, Here,
Asks Unwritten Pact.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Unwritten alliance among the English-speaking people of the United States and the British empire, based on common thoughts and ideals that they will act together to preserve those ideals and the peace of the world, was a new crisis statement urged here yesterday by Premier Stanley Melbourne Bruce of Australia. He talked before the English-speaking union at the Hotel La Salle.

Premier Bruce, returning via the United States from the London imperial conference, at which a new status was given the British commonwealth as to future political and military alliances, declared an agreement such as he proposed, which need not paper nor state seals, was the great hope of present and future civilization.

Mr. Bruce pleaded with the business leaders to help restore Europe to normal conditions. He urged them to ignore the critics who directed against this country as coming from a discriminated people. He said Europe should be treated as a sick child and helped to grow well.

Defends Nations' League Strength.

The league of nations, he said, was not strong enough to prevent war, as among the great powers, but such a union as he proposed would be. He said Australia was as much opposed to "entangling alliances" as is America. He asked that any rancor due to the American revolution be forgotten and that the people of this country look at the world with a broad view. He explained how the dominions now have a voice not granted before in foreign policy and this voice is in accord with the democratic spirit of the United States.

England could not make war except in a cause considered just and right by its dominions. He said and thought it would get the support of the far-flung commonwealths, a supreme sacrifice of unity.

Following his address he was asked

Urge Anglo-American Amity

that he thought of Austen Chamberlain's statement that the peace of Europe is more important than the integrity of the British empire.

Believes Him Wrongly Quoted.

"I cannot believe that he made such a statement," he said. Most of his speech was directed at the thought that cooperation between the empire and the United States was necessary to preserve peace in Europe and elsewhere.

Mr. Bruce's attention was directed to the threatening situation in China, and asked what he thought the effect of this would be upon the other yellow races and the general situation.

"Such a question," he said, "involves a policy of empire and it would not do for one spokesman to comment on it."

Mr. Bruce also refused to discuss a proposed British-American alliance to protect the Philippines, saying that any such comment would get him into a lot of trouble at this time.

He was presented to the big audience in the hotel ballroom as the young prime minister of British commonwealth since Sir William Pitt. Mr. Bruce was wounded while in service at Gallipoli. He won his membership through service in the Australian parliament after the war.

A conspicuous figure at the imperial conference, he here advocated the policy of a protective tariff as fundamental preference, declaring that Australia's white places must be filled with white people.

"We have today, after eight years of so-called peace, the world even more distracted than before the war. Nations are eying each other suspiciously, and there is a desire for retribution and there is an atmosphere of doubt," he said here yesterday.

"Added to this is the great economic and financial anxiety of the world.

"The imperial conference just ended put the final seal on the accomplishment that ends the old entangling colonies, conform to a common allegiance to the crown and cements them closely into one people.

"The old empire, ever reaching out, grabbing, imposing its will, is gone. We have no intention of making another mistake. Couldn't we forget that unfortunate happening of 100 years ago?"

"The new British empire is the very thing the United States could well cooperate with. We are just as democratic as you are. I rather think that my own country in the south seas we are a little more so. The idea of equal rights and opportunities permeates all the British communities, does a determination to preserve democratic principles."

Keep to Washington's Advice.

"The doctrine of Washington against foreign entanglements—you have kept that in the letter and spirit. In the Pacific we look out of the same atmosphere with the same feeling—no desire to join the ancient hatreds and animosities that caused the war in Europe.

"Today we are on a new basis. The voice of every democratic overman is in the British foreign policy. They cannot have a policy unless it keeps us out of unnecessary entanglements, remembering what a great nation owes to the world."

"It seems a little doubtful that our hopes ever will be realized, but today we are the one hope, the bulwark of civilization."

"I think we can draw some comfort from the eight years of peace in that it has brought an increasing measure of confidence between our two great countries."

Mr. Bruce cited as incidents of this new confidence, the recognition given the new Irish Free State, the Washington conference on the limitation of naval armament, and the recent extension of the British extended territorial limits to 12 miles at sea to aid the U. S. to enforce the prohibition law. This was a gesture of friendship, he said, and did not mean that the British either believed or disbelieved in the policy itself.

"We have had continual anxiety of the best possible relations," he continued, "and have done all in our power. There are some things that might be done to make it easier."

Mr. Bruce said the British empire was reconstructed as the result of the war of the American revolution.

"Both countries have achieved a great deal," he added. "We accomplished almost as a parallel. You went west and conquered a continent and established a federated system of government. The British, with the same adventurous souls, went out, too, overseas. In my opinion, our achievement was greater, because our difficulties were greater.

Seal on Imperial Union.

"The imperial conference just ended put the final seal on the accomplishment that ends the old entangling colonies, conform to a common allegiance to the crown and cements them closely into one people.

"The old empire, ever reaching out, grabbing, imposing its will, is gone. We have no intention of making another mistake. Couldn't we forget that unfortunate happening of 100 years ago?"

"At this point, we remember the position of the world and our obligation. It is imperative today for any country—and we are thousands of miles farther from Europe than you—to say that it can live entirely to itself. That it has no interest in the other parts of the world. The day of isolation is gone. We are prepared to take up the obligations of a great people, retaining for great ideals in a world that appears to have lost a lot of its moral sense."

Balance for the World.

"Let the world know that the British empire and this people (the Americans) are prepared to maintain the freedom, liberty, justice, that they think the same way, that they are at any time prepared to act to see that their ideals are not outraged, and you have a greater force for peace than anything the world has seen in the past."

"It can be done. I don't say an alliance, but a formal engagement—notching of the sort is necessary. We know America does not desire it and Australia is just as desirous of avoiding it. We don't need it. The British empire is a federation of nations bound by the same ideals, ambitions, the spirit of insuring world peace, justice and rights."

"Should the mother land go to war, it must be in a cause that is just and right, and then only will England get response from every corner of her empire. We are prepared to make any sacrifice."

"I am confident that world circumstances make it necessary that this great force (this understanding among English-speaking people) shall exist."

Powers Law to Themselves.

"The league of nations has gone on and has done much. It has got an influence in the world, the power to control smaller nations and prevent them from becoming a menace to peace. It is idle to suggest that it can insure peace if there is a disagreement among the great powers."

Mr. Bruce urged an Anglo-American accord for the future, concluding:

"It is the hope for the future, the only solid foundation on which civilization rests today."

Before the Industrial club at a banquet in the Blackstone hotel last night Mr. Bruce urged the investment of American capital and brains in Australia, saying more capital has been invested in Chicago than in all of Australia. Still the bulk of Australia is in the United States. He also advised reports that Australia will seek to float a large loan in the United States.

NONPARTISAN FARM BILL DROPS EQUALIZING FEE

Offer Compromise Plan in Senate, House.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—(Special)—A move of great significance was made yesterday by Senator George W. Norris (Rep., Kas.), majority leader of the Senate, and Representative Crisp (Dem., Ga.) introduced identical bills, which they offered as a nonpartisan compromise on the diverse provisions of the McNary-Haugen, Fess-Tincher, and other farm relief plans, but avoids the controversial provisions of each which produced the deadlock on agricultural legislation in the last session. No Equalization Fee.

There is no provision for levying an equalization fee on production as provided in the McNary-Haugen bill. The Curtis-Crisp measure provides for a $250,000,000 government supplied revolving fund to finance the disposition of surplus and for the enhancement of market prices by limitation of production. The underlying principle is that there is no profit to efficient producers only.

The bill is the result of the collaboration of a group of senators and representatives composed chiefly of administration Republicans and Democrats from the cotton states. Administration leaders think they have reason to believe that the bill will be acceptable to the President and are confident that if it can be passed at this session it will dispose of farm relief measures.

The Curtis-Crisp bill incorporates features of the McNary-Haugen, Fess-Tincher, and other farm relief plans, but avoids the controversial provisions of each which produced the deadlock on agricultural legislation in the last session.

No Equalization Fee.

The Curtis-Crisp bill incorporates features of the McNary-Haugen, Fess-Tincher, and other farm relief plans, but avoids the controversial provisions of each which produced the deadlock on agricultural legislation in the last session.

The Curtis-Crisp bill provides for the creation of a federal farm board of twelve members appointed by the President; the secretary of agriculture to be its chairman. No basic commodities are named, but the act can be applied to any farm product. There is to be an advisory council of seven members for each commodity.

When approved by the council that the equalization exists, the board can authorize the cooperatives dealing in the product to organize a corporation to handle the surplus. The board can advance money from the revolving fund to enable the corporation to buy the house committee on agriculture decided today to take up the Haugen measure next Tuesday. It is expected that the committee will report the bill favorably within a fortnight.

The farm bloc is in no mood for compromise on the essentials of the McNary-Haugen plan and prefers, if that cannot be passed, to carry the issue under the leadership of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, the corn belt candidate for President.

How That Would Operate.

The corn belt leaders believe the nonpartisan measure boldly, pronouncing it a rehash of the Fess-Tincher bill, the passage of which was blocked by the western Republicans and southern Democrats in the last session. They declare that nothing of the machinery provided by the McNary-Haugen plan, including the equalization fee, will operate effectively to raise the domestic market price of farm commodities.

The mid-western members of the house are preparing for another effort to put over the McNary-Haugen bill.

and hold the surplus until the price reaches a point at which an efficient producer receives a reasonable profit.

Loans to individual farmers are to be made only when the price is lower than the cost of production to efficient producers, when the commodity is in standard market grade, for which there is domestic demand, when there is a prospect of increased production and when the cooperatives agree to sell after a reasonable price has been reached, as to prevent prices from going to an exorbitant level. By such measures production is to be limited.

The bill provides that of any profit made by a commodity corporation a reserve fund is to be retained and the remainder distributed to the cooperative members. If there is a loss, it shall be sustained by the government.

Hold Youth on Murderous Charge.

A woman's jury yesterday held Joseph Babcock, 25, to the grand jury on a charge of murdering Anthony Maisacek, 34, in the avenue. Witness testified that Babcock and Maisacek had quarreled in an athletic club at 1647 Elston street shortly before the latter was killed in an alley in the rear of 1547 Elston avenue.

FRANCE, ITALY SHAKE HANDS AS BORDER ROW ENDS

LONDON, Jan. 6.—The British ambassador at Paris wired Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain today that the frontier tension between France and Italy has ended. A few days ago the Italian ambassador to Paris called on Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and promised them would be no more frontier trouble. Both governments now say the frontier relations are satisfactory.

At the same time, the British government has learned that grave trouble over the Germersheim incident, in which one German was killed and two wounded by a French officer, has been averted.

When the sentence of one German by the French court martial was announced, the German ambassador gave Foreign Minister Briand an ultimatum that if the sentence was not recalled immediately there would be a solemn declaration by Berlin that the Locarno policy had ended.

INVENTORY PUTS STUART ESTATE OVER $3,000,000

Quaker Oats Director's Investments Shrewd.

Careful investments of the late Robert D. Stuart, director of the Quaker Oats company, brought the value of his estate to more than $3,000,000, according to an inventory approved yesterday by Leon Edelman, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

The estate was valued at approximately $2,100,000 at the time of Mr. Stuart's death a year ago, but an appraisal of his assets revealed that it was larger.

Mrs. Margaret J. Stuart, 4850 Woodlawn avenue, the widow, was given $10,000,000 under the will. The remainder of the estate, with the exception of a few bequests to charity and to relatives, was divided among three children. John Stuart, 990 Sherman road, Hubbard Woods; Robert D. Stuart, 140 Mayflower road, Lake Forest, and Margaret Stuart McDonald, 209 London street, Peterborough, Ont., Canada.

Mr. Stuart had $232,273 in cash in the Northern Trust company bank and owned insurance policies totaling $83,000. Following is a list of his investment and their par values:

YAQUIS FIGHT TO PRESERVE THEIR RACE, CHIEF SAYS

Matus Charges.

Chicago Tribune Press Service.

Chihuahua, Mexico, Jan. 6.—A Yaqui chief has brought to the Mexican government the story of Tepic, a state capital, by Gen. Luis Matus, chief of the Yaqui Indians, revealing the reasons for the Yaquis' rebellion against the Mexican government.

Gen. Matus' statement follows:

"You ask 'What? and fight for?' We did not start this war. It was forced upon us through the misrepresentations of our enemies. The proof of this statement is that we were altogether unprepared when we were forced into such a position that we had to defend our rights."

"When we were in Guaymas, that is, our representatives, waiting to receive the periodical payment allowed us by treaty with the Mexican government, we were told on Sept. 12, 1925, by the Mexican government, which is the truth, that the Mexican government was not only preparing to make war on us but that troops were already on the way from the uplands. This is why on Sept. 12 and following days we tore up the southern line of the Southern Pacific and burned bridges and destroyed roads. The reason for our having taken this action is that the corn we planted last year was still unripe and rotted in the valley of the Yaqui river, where we were living, when we played our hand first. Many of our people were far from the mountains south of the Yaqui river, close to the coast, and these were captured by the Mexican army when attempting to get back to the hills."

"It is not true that we were conspiring against the Mexican government, in whose service there are still hundreds of Yaquis. Another untruth constantly repeated is that there is disunity in our ranks, that we are disloyal. The Yaquis are not disloyal. We are not in league with Adolfo de la Huerta and the Catholic church,

JUDGE LINDSAY ASKS REVISION OF STATE LAWS

Chief Justice William J. Lindsay of the Criminal court made a plea for the revision of all Illinois statutory law in an address last evening before members of the Illinois Women's Bar association at the Morrison hotel.

Definition of crimes is still predicated on the English common law dating back centuries and designed for a medieval population, he said. With such a background, the Supreme court cannot help from basing its decisions on outmoded laws for which it is constantly being criticized.

"The whole system of law in Illinois is wrong," Judge Lindsay said. "It needs revision, unification, and elimination. We run too much to ethics and too little to the just administration of law. There is too much gibberish as to who is going to make the rules and too little chance for substantial justice."

ENFORCE LAWS, COOLIDGE WORD TO CITIZEN BODY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6 (AP)—Failure of law enforcement means the failure of government, President Coolidge said in a letter read tonight at the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand annual banquet.

"I am sorry to say that all we have done for the protection of our homes and health has been in vain," Mr. Coolidge said. "The life itself is dependent for our protection upon public law. If it fails to be enforced, government itself fails. If it fails to be observed, the very foundations on which self-government rests is weakened and destroyed. Anything that your organization can do to express this principle on the public mind will be a distinct patriotic service."

NEVER BARS GOLF IN GRIEVING OVER DEATH OF SLOAN

Undecided Whether He'll Return for Funeral.

BY THOMAS WREN.

BIRMINGHAM, Miss., Jan. 6.—[Special.] Mayor Dever, resting here in preparation for the coming mayoralty campaign, forgot politics for twenty-four hours and went out hunting for deer yesterday.

He spent the day pondering in view over the death of John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, and one of his closest friends.

Much of his time was spent in communication with members of his cabinet in Chicago concerning plans for Mr. Sloan's funeral.

The two brothers of Mr. Sloan had reached Mayor Dever last night, visibly affected and his intent was to return to Chicago immediately.

This morning, however, he complained of a slight cold and Biloxi physicians advised against any hurried trip north.

Mr. Sloan's record of achievement is often mentioned in the third person by Dever, awaiting for reflection. The mayor expressed this feeling and in talking of the death of this member of his cabinet he listed some of the major accomplishments of the board Mr. Sloan had headed.

Friends for 30 Years.

"My friendship with John Sloan dates back thirty years," said the mayor. "During that time found him one of the most loyal friends a man could have. I first made his acquaintance when I was in the city council, serving on an aldermanic committee, and he was superintendent of the Bridewell. He was a man of the aggressive type who could and did things."

"I relied on him for good and sound advice, and his progressive spirit, his energy and activity are still remembered in the civic improvements he built for Chicago." Wacker drive, the Robert street, Ashland avenue, Twenty-second street, and Roosevelt road improvements are but the most important of the many great works that he accomplished."

Mr. Sloan is the second member of Dever's cabinet to die within a short time. And a half month ago, Col. Edward B. Elliott, president of the board of education, died and the mayor included him in a comment on some of the difficulties of running a municipal administration.

Chicago City's Small Salary.

"A man of Mr. Sloan's ability could have commanded a big salary, yet he chose the city's small salary and devoted himself to furthering Chicago's welfare," said Mayor Dever. "Many times I tried to persuade Col. Elliott to accept a salaried position, but he refused, realizing his aid to me would be greater as head of the school board. Yet both of these men were criticized at times when they should have been receiving glowing tributes of commendation. Both served Chicago and its people beyond measure."

The mayor stated that he had no one yet in mind as a successor to Mr. Sloan.

"It will be hard to fill his place," he declared. "The task presents a perplexing problem."

Late this afternoon the mayor and his companions drove for twenty-five miles along the gulf coast, returning after dinner. In the mayor's absence Mayor Arthur O'Keefe of New Orleans, heading to Mexico City, called at the Buena Vista hotel.

J. J. SLOAN FUNERAL TO PASS OVER WACKER DR. IN HONOR OF BUILDER

Over Wacker drive, the project which his friends say cost his life through overwork, the body of John J. Sloan, late president of the board of local improvements, will be carried to Calvary cemetery tomorrow morning.

Mr. Sloan died Wednesday night at the Washington Boulevard Hospital after a two month illness. Funeral services are to be held at 9:30 a.m. from the family home, 2908 Warren avenue, and St. Mathew's church. Then the cortège will move east to the home, proceed the length of Wacker drive, and end at the cemetery.

With the cortège will ride men of all ranks and stations of the city's service—laborers who poured cement for the drive, and whom Mr. Sloan insisted should be in the dedicatory parade, his fellow cabinet members, the entire city council, and other officials.

Mayor Dever, resting at Biloxi, Miss., telegraphed that he will be unable to attend the services, but sent his condolence to the family.

Chicago City's Small Salary.

"A man of Mr. Sloan's ability could have commanded a big salary, yet he chose the city's small salary and devoted himself to furthering Chicago's welfare," said Mayor Dever. "Many times I tried to persuade Col. Elliott to accept a salaried position, but he refused, realizing his aid to me would be greater as head of the school board. Yet both of these men were criticized at times when they should have been receiving glowing tributes of commendation. Both served Chicago and its people beyond measure."

The mayor stated that he had no one yet in mind as a successor to Mr. Sloan.

"It will be hard to fill his place," he declared. "The task presents a perplexing problem."

Late this afternoon the mayor and his companions drove for twenty-five miles along the gulf coast, returning after dinner. In the mayor's absence Mayor Arthur O'Keefe of New Orleans, heading to Mexico City, called at the Buena Vista hotel.

C. & N. W. BUILDS ONE BIG YARD TO HANDLE FREIGHT

To Keep All Road Trains Out of Chicago.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
The Northwestern railway is planning to keep all its road freight trains out of Chicago, and almost out of Cook county. Under this program none of them will be permitted to bring meat, cinders and smoke within twelve miles of the loop. Incoming trains will be stopped and outgoing trains started at the enormous Proviso yard which extends to the western county line.

The cost of the improvement is estimated at about $10,000,000 and will require approximately seven years to build. Upward of 50,000 yards have been spent on the result that the grade crossings near Lake street and the county line have been eliminated, thirty freight tracks will be ready for trains on March 1 and about 50 per cent of the project will have been completed a month later. By April 1 the new office building at the yard will be finished and it is planned to have the freight transfer house ready for operation about Oct. 1.

All Freight in One Yard.

"When the project is completed," said President Fred W. Sargent yesterday, "all road freight trains will arrive at and depart from one yard. All traffic between this point and the city and connecting lines will be handled by switch trains. The various yards at the present time will be relieved and rearranged for the more economical and expeditious handling of the city's traffic."

"The new yard on the Galena division is located at a point where the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad connects with the Northwestern and where the latter company's outer belt, linking up the four radiating lines, connects with its Chicago-Omaha line, which is its most southerly radiating line from Chicago."

"The yard contemplated will contain 250 miles of track, covering a length of five miles and an area of approximately 1,250 acres. It will comprise three inner sets of yards for the inbound and eastward moving freight and three sets for the west bound traffic, sufficient in track capacity for handling 6,000 cars eastward and 4,000 westward every 24 hours."

Plan Classification Area.

"The tracks will be so arranged that trains arriving from the west on the Galena division will enter one side of the yard and those arriving from the north via the West Side division will enter the other side. There will be an inbound classification yard, having a capacity of 3,000 cars. Then there will be two departure yards of 1,500 car capacity each." Mr. Sargent also told of sundry other tracks for other purposes. One yard with a capacity of 2,000 cars will be added later for hold cars, and another yard of 5,000 car capacity will be used for storage or overflow traffic in outbound movements of freight."

A freight house for less than car load lots with a track capacity of 725 cars at one time is now being built. This traffic will be taken to Proviso in trip cars and to some extent in motor. It is expected that this facility will be completed this year.

West Parks Will Ask

$10,000,000 Bond Issue

Action directed toward authorization by the state legislature of a $10,000,000 bond issue for various west side improvements was begun in the west park commissioners yesterday. By unanimous vote the commission instructed Dr. John Dill Robertson, the president, to arrange for a formal request for the bond issue. Widening of parts of Jackson and Washington boulevards and the building of a field house in La Follette park are among the contemplated improvements.

CONVENTION OF SHOE MEN DEBATES WHAT'S BEST FOR THE FEET

Whether shoes with rigid or flexible arches are better for the feet was a question discussed yesterday at the convention of the National Shoe Retailers' Association here.

Charles Herbert Brown, representing a large firm that specializes in shoes with flexible shanks, claimed this type of footwear better. He said the surgeon general of the United States army had been convinced that rigid arches are best for soldiers on the march. This kind of shoe was the standard for the army during the world war, he said. The New York firm, which also has tried the steel shank shoe and approves of them, Mr. Brown said.

Dr. J. H. Stiles Jr., professor of the Kansas City College of Osteopathy, said the firm arches are harmful.

ILLINOIS BORER ADDS 1C BUSHEL TO CORN PRICES

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Discovery of a single specimen of the European corn borer in Kankakee county has stimulated a speculation and height increase on the price of July corn one cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. The borer is considered the worst crop pest that ever invaded America, threatening the live stock industry, and indirectly manufacturing, in the Mississippi valley.

Corn Borers Are Sleeping.
Despite the fact that those parasites are now asleep in their winter quarters and commercial damage to the Illinois corn crop is not expected for at least two years, officials of grain elevators and farmers are immediately concerned. The pest is expected to lead to an immediate increase in the cost of producing corn, because farmers must start their fight this winter. All known means of killing the borer must be used, experts say.

The lone European corn borer, an inch long, was found in a corn root in the Illinois-Indiana state line by Fred Love, a farmer living about seven miles northwest of Muncie, Ind. The enemy was picked up and sent to Washington, D. C., by J. B. Collier, Kankakee county's farm advisor, and W. P. Flint, state's entomologist.

Scouts Will Hunt Borers.

Scouts will search the entire area around Kankakee and Muncie to see if other specimens can be found. P. A. Glenn, chief state plant inspector, announced yesterday that he would send five inspectors to Ohio. There the insect has become well established. After the insects are detected in the borer, they will return to scout in the newly infested Illinois field.

Around the discovery of the pest, the Illinois Agricultural association has called a meeting of the state corn borer committee to be held in Chicago Jan. 14.

Corn Raising War Fund.

Word reached that the borer had been found in Illinois. The Purnell corn borer eradication bill asking for $10,000,000 was quickly reported by the house committees. The measure is expected to be passed by Feb. 1.

The corn borer, when destructive, is the common name of the moth known as Helicoverpa armigera. The female moth lays 250 to 1,200 eggs a season on corn blades. The growing caterpillar lives off the corn plant, spins his or her cocoon, becomes a male or female moth, and finds or rears a family, as it were. The caterpillar is about an inch long and of a dirty white color.

There is a smaller parasite that lives on these caterpillars. The University of Illinois is raising these parasites, feeding them on the borer that lives off the smartweed, and is a relative of the corn borer. This parasite is relied on to help farmers save their corn, thus providing such grain for human food and feed for live stock.

Glenn, chief state plant inspector, announced yesterday that he would send five inspectors to Ohio. There the insect has become well established. It only took the corn borer a few years practically to wipe out Canada's corn crop. The pest crossed the international border six or eight years ago and has been spreading rapidly westward from Lake Erie.

Arrest Youth on Charge of Shooting Girl to Death

Barry Brennan, 26 years old, 742 West 51st street, was arrested last night in the home of James Young, 1440 West 51st street, and charged with the murder of Miss Edna Bolt. He had been sought since the death of the girl from bullet on Oct. 12. It is alleged Brennan shot the girl when he became involved in an argument in a restaurant at 51st and Peoria streets. Miss Bolt's body was left in an alley and Brennan escaped.

Tour in Illinois Good Roads and No Gas Tax

ILLINOIS should be a tourist state. We have beauty spots; spots of historic interest; good roads; and no gas tax.

Public minded citizens interested in making Illinois a popular touring state should help to spread information regarding Illinois' many beautiful spots; the people of the country should be told about our places of historic interest. We should encourage touring in Illinois by discouraging any talk of a gas tax.

The Chicago Motor Club has done much to spread the story of the advantages of touring in Illinois. We now ask all those interested in promoting touring in Illinois to help us in our fight against a gas tax.

Let us enter your name as an opponent of any gas tax measure. Send the coupon today.

CHICAGO BLAMED AND PRAISED FOR LAKE DIVERSION

Witnesses Are Heard on Rainey Bill.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 6.—[Special.]—Chicago's diversion of Lake Michigan water alternately was blamed for the flood conditions it produces in the Illinois river valley and praised as a promise of future navigable river depths by witnesses before the house floor control committee today. The committee is considering a bill sponsored by Representative Rainey (Dana, Ill.), which would extend the operation of the federal flood control act to the Illinois river valley.

Eugene Brown of Peoria, Ill., asserted that while residents in the valley generally estimate a command of the diversion benefits its prospective benefits to navigation and power development, they also believe that an overflow onto the bottom lands along the river should justify shutting off the flood stage from Lake Michigan until the flood stage has passed.

Representative W. H. Hull (Rep., Ill.), also of Peoria, and who was one of the leaders in the fight, recently successful, to obtain an appropriation for the completion of the lakes-to-gulf waterway through the Illinois river, took issue with his townsmen, declaring that heavy rains produced a flood last year which would have produced a drop of water from Lake Michigan.

Mr. Hull argued that because the diversion may be materially reduced in future years it should not be counted a permanent benefit in the preparation of plans for embankments, protection of the Illinois. He also argued that when construction of the waterway is undertaken, the earth dredged from the river bed to make a 9 foot channel will be thrown up on the banks, providing material for the levees proposed in the Rainey bill.

RESERVE OFFICERS ELECT MAJ. J. E. WHITE AS THEIR PRESIDENT

Maj. James Edward White, a Legionnaire, has been elected president of the Reserve Officers' Association of Chicago. During the Spanish-American war he served in the Philippines Islands with the 51st Iowa volunteer infantry.

He was commissioned a captain at the First Officers' Training camp at Fort Sheridan in 1917. He served in the Infantry at Camp Grant and went overseas as a Maj. J. E. WHITE.

For several weeks M. D. Lawler, an agent for undisclosed parties, has sought to buy the judgment of $1,072,000, including interest, for $922,637.

Questioning regarding the lake cargo case was pending before the committee and in which Pittsburgh coal interests are seeking a readjustment of freight rates in relation to rates to take ports from coal fields in West Virginia, Tennessee, and Kentucky. Mr. Woods said he had no preconceived notion.

Opposition to his confirmation has emanated chiefly from the states arrayed against Pennsylvania in the lake cargo case.

Mr. Woods said that some years ago he was attorney for the Pittsburgh Coal company, which is one of those interested in the lake cargo case. He owns, he said, 10 shares of stock in this company and about the same amount in the Westmoreland Coal company which operates in West Virginia.

Mr. Woods said he owned 500 shares of Pennsylvania Railroad stock and his holdings of railroad bonds included $200 of the Pennsylvania, $25,000 of the Norfolk and Western, $25,000 of the Atchison, $25,000 of the Union Pacific, and $25,000 of the Northern Pacific.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 6.—Speaking before the annual meeting of the railmen, Dr. Hugh G. Gilchrist, federal conservative leader, committed the conservative party of Canada to a policy of Canadian contribution to empire defense costs if the imperial conference report is passed by the Canadian commons. He agreed with Premier Bruce Ralston's contention that the new arrangement, if accepted, will increase imperial responsibilities. Particularly was this agreement to Canada, whose empire defense expenditures in the past had been barely one-fifth of Australia's.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Whethers conductors, trainmen, and yardmen of twenty-two southeastern railroads and terminal systems will back up the efforts of their executive committee to obtain a large increase of one dollar a day to the extent of walking out if their demands are not granted is being decided by a vote of the membership.

The vote will not be completed until Jan. 20, at which time W. N. Doak, representing the trainmen, and L. E. Shippard, president of the Order of Railmen Conductors, will meet in Washington to consider further action.

The action of the executive committee of the labor organization was announced today in Cleveland by William G. Lee, president of the trainmen, and in New York by Mr. Doak, who is representing the trainmen in the negotiations and who said that every effort would be exerted to arrive at a satisfactory agreement with the railroads.

LAWYERS TURN LISMAN PLAN INTO ORDINANCE

Council Transit Group to Get It Monday.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Corporation Counsel Busch's assistants, C. Morton Doty, James Coopersmith, and William Touhy, said yesterday they expect to complete their check of the Lisman transit plan for Chicago this afternoon. It will be printed and ready for aldermen's inspection Monday noon.

For ten days they have been conferring with Frederick J. Lisman, New York banker; John Maynard Harlan, his lawyer, and Eugene Camp, his engineer, trying to meet the objectives raised by the council committee on local transportation. Maj. R. F. Kehler Jr., engineer for the committee, also has been in the conference.

Death Delays Other Report.

The death of John J. Sloan, president of the board of local improvements, and his burial, planned for Saturday, caused the postponement of the committee meeting until next Wednesday, thus delaying the report on the ordinance based on the negotiations with the surface lines. What is reported is it will go to a subcommittee for consideration, while the Lisman ordinance has passed the subcommittee stage. It is pending before the committee.

The Chicago Motor Bus plan has not yet had the stamp of the drafting of an ordinance. It is a subcommittee matter and the company has asked for more time. The subcommittee chairman, Al. Toman, said yesterday he is ready to call a meeting any time the company is ready to talk; probably the company will be asked to submit a franchise ordinance.

Extension Still Debatable.

There is another major factor, the question of whether a six months' extension of the present surface lines franchises shall be passed. The local transportation committee has to date announced that it is desired to know what the demands deserve before the temporary ordinance is passed. To be of any value the six months' extension must be effective before Feb. 1. Then the present franchise expires according to Corporation Counsel Busch.

CAROL SOON TO BE

REPORT ASSERTS

PARIS, Jan. 6.—(U. N.)—Early arrival of an armistice at the walls of Mama Louisa in favor of whom her son Crown Prince Carol has made overtures of peace with King Ferdinand of Roumania, was predicted in a dispatch sent to the royal family in Bucharest by the Roumanian legation here it was learned today. The former crown prince and Mama Lepescu are seen together constantly and he is said to have expressed little interest in reports that he would lead a military action against the present regime in Roumania.

FRENCH DEPUTIES PREDICT CABINET FALL BY EASTER

Internal Strife Due to Cause Shakeup.

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
PARIS, Jan. 6.—Premier Raymond Poincaré's union cabinet is ill prepared in many ways to face the crucial test when the French parliament assembles next week. Many deputies, including the cabinet meeting today, predicted that the ministry would fall before Easter and that it would have to be reorganized before March 1.

With the financial situation by no means secure and with the senatorial elections next Sunday menacing the left wing, it was evident after the ministers met today that the government not only is struggling with dissension in the ranks but has only vaguely outlined a program. It faces a deadlock on several important questions.

Sideline Debt Issue.

Signs of weakness were evinced rather than strength, and nothing more than what was accomplished could be agreed to answer a list of eighty interpellations, giving priority to those relating to the high cost of living and unemployment, but postponing action on foreign affairs and leaving wholly untouched two other immensely important questions—electoral reforms, and the recall of the Senate.

A well informed source revealed to THE TRIBUNE that there is actual discord within the cabinet on these last important questions. Minister of Pensions Louis Marin is firmly opposed to the government's policies, while Andre Tardieu also is believed hostile, although he is too wily to become antagonistic. It is to be Marin who the deputies prefer when they predicted a change in the cabinet. His position is becoming daily more delicate, particularly regarding the German rapprochement. Foreign Minister Aristide Briand is threatening to demand a showdown with the ministry on the rapprochement question.

Danger to Finance Seen.

Even the realm of finance, where the government, under Premier Poincaré, has firmly established its financial policies, is somewhat compromised. This is evidenced by the announcement that the Bank of France's advances to the state have reached within 1,500,000 francs ($59,100) of the limit fixed by the law.

WAGNER THROWS AL'S HAT IN 1928 DEMOCRATIC RING

New York, Jan. 6.—[Special.]—AL'S HAT IS OFF! The hat of the people of the nation as a candidate for the presidency tonight by Senator-Elect Robert F. Wagner in a speech at the National Democratic club.

The casting of the governor's hat into the ring was received with cheers by the 1,500 members present.

The governor, in his inaugural address last Saturday, declared he would "do nothing personally" to further his nomination in 1928. Wagner's declaration, therefore, reveals that the governor's friends will act for him.

Gov. Smith did not attend the dinner.

Judge Wagner, after briefly attacking prohibition, asserted that the great issue of the next presidential campaign would be the reconstruction of states' rights.

Major James J. Walker echoed the sentiments of Senator Wagner with regard to the presidential availability of Gov. Smith.

"If precedents mean anything," he said, "if achievement in Democratic administration means anything, the accomplishments of which Senator Wagner has spoken are but the foreword to what will happen at the next presidential election."

One newspaper singlehanded introduces new product over Iowa in ninety days

The Des Moines Register and Tribune reaching every third family in the state of Iowa sells 14,000 cases - 17 carloads - a half million cans of Bean Hole Beans for Van Camp Products Co. in three months.

"Your wonderful coverage of Iowa is largely responsible for this gratifying sales record," advertiser writes.

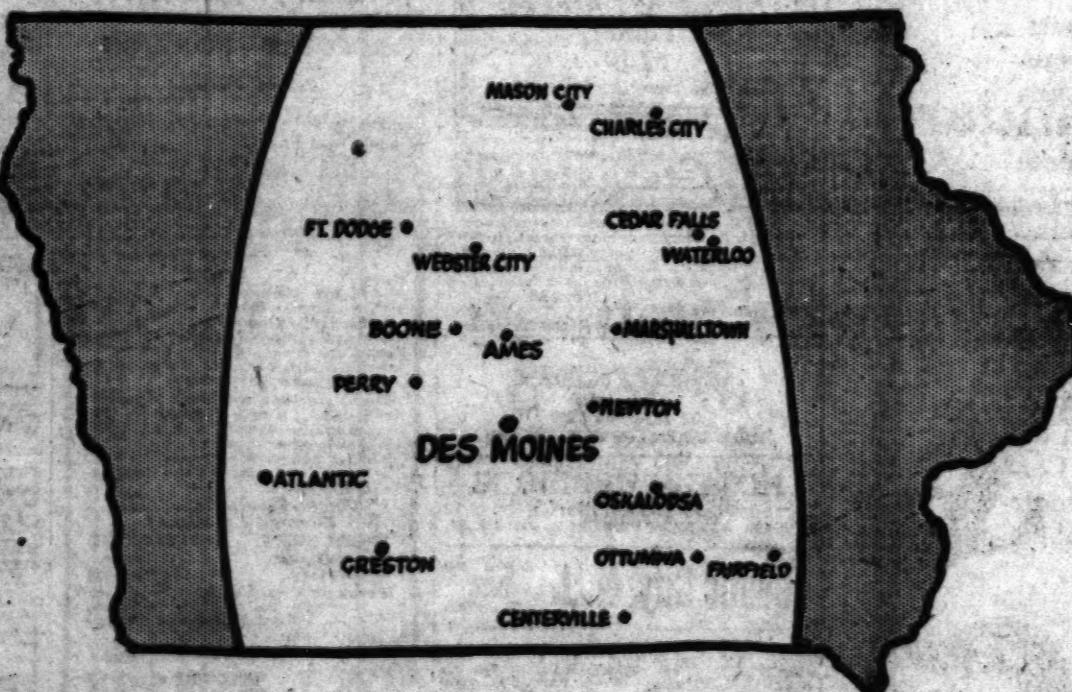

Unknown in August—today a staple seller with 42 jobbers and thousands of Iowa grocers.

That's the story of the success of the Van Camp Products Company in introducing Bean Hole Beans to Iowa.

Seventeen car loads—14,000 cases—or a half million cans—of a new food product were sold in Iowa in ninety days.

Advertising—the persuasive appetite creating kind, introduced Bean Hole Beans to Iowa. And The Des Moines Register and Tribune singlehanded with its 190,000 daily and 160,000 Sunday circulation carried the Bean Hole Bean advertising over the state.

A newspaper circulation that fits a state market as if it were made to order, is the reason back of Van Camp's success in Iowa.

The Des Moines Register and Tribune has a larger circulation than all the 19 other daily papers published within the center two-thirds of Iowa

This remarkable demonstration proves that the most efficient way to sell Iowa is to start sales efforts at Des Moines, the state's commercial center, and then spread out over the state paralleling the circulation

We expected our Bean Hole Bean campaign by the end of this year. Our sales up to date are double our quota and we've a month to go. We have already sold 14,000 cases in Iowa. Your wonderful coverage of Iowa is, we feel, largely responsible for this gratifying sales record.

When you told us of the confidence of the Iowa jobber and grocer in the selling power of your advertising column, we thought you were overly enthusiastic. Now we feel that you demonstrated your case. The intelligent, gently directed, wholehearted cooperation of your merchandising staff was very helpful.

Very truly yours,

PACKARD'S Tribune Want Ad Campaign sets used car sales record!

IN January, 1926, the Packard Motor Car Company of Chicago began to concentrate most of its Used Car advertising in The Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section. Here are the results:

1. Packard sold more used cars during 1926 than ever before in any year of its history!

2. Between January 1st and December 1st of 1926 Packard sold 946 used cars for $662,502!

3. By spending 78% of its used car advertising appropriation in The Tribune, Packard has found that this expenditure produced 95% of the total used car sales developed by its advertising!

Packard relied most on The Tribune, spending $7,088.85 in The Tribune and only $1,940 in all the other papers combined! And the sales cost of Tribune advertising was the lowest of all the papers used!

"It must be remembered," states Mr. Frink, "that our reputation is just as much at stake whenever we sell a used car as it is when we sell a new Packard. For that reason our advertising copy must not exaggerate the features of a car and it must appear in an advertising medium that commands the respect of its readers. That's just another reason why we shall continue to concentrate most of our advertising in The Tribune Want Ad Section."

To establish this new sales record in used cars, Packard used The Tribune theory of "The More You Tell, the Quicker You Sell." So also have most of the other important automobile sales agencies in Chicago. Their Used Car Want Ads appearing day-in and day-out have made The Chicago Tribune's Want Ad columns the "Motor Row of Advertising."

And Chicagoans know it! That's why every Used Car Want Ad placed in The Chicago Tribune gets maximum attention from the thousands of able-to-buy readers who make up The Tribune's circulation —by far the largest of all Chicago daily papers.

Remember—there is no method of selling that costs so little and produces so much as a Tribune Want Ad!

Tribune Want Ads produced 95% of all the sales developed by advertising

"We know by experience that by far the best method of selling used cars is by listing them in the want ad columns of newspapers," states Mr. Frink, advertising manager, "and our results this year have proved that Tribune Want Ads produce at least 95% of all the sales resulting from all of our newspaper advertising.

"We decided last January to concentrate our advertising in The Tribune rather than split it up among several papers, because we have proved by listing the same cars in each paper at different times that The Tribune outpulls every other Chicago paper in number of inquiries."

Packard relies almost entirely on its newspaper advertising for new used car prospects. In 1926

$60,000,000 FOR CONSTRUCTION

Program of Unusual Civic Activity in Metropolis of Middle West.

More than $60,000,000 in public work is under construction in St. Louis or will be undertaken during the next six months, according to a recent statement by the Mayor of that city.

A part of this great municipal expenditure is due to the active work now going on in connection with the city's $37,000,000 bond issue for municipal improvements.

A detailed report on the condition of local improvement made by W. E. Roche, of the Board of Public Service, gives the following interesting figures:

Proposed	Bonds Authorized	Approved
1. Old buildings and structures	3,650,000	2,384,000
2. Union Station	3,000,000	None
3. New streets	5,850,000	982,000
4. Fire department	1,000,000	4,077,519
5. New courts	4,000,000	3,950,000
6. Construction	6,000,000	5,917,000
7. River Des Peres	11,000,000	3,021,150
8. Parks and playgrounds	3,500,000	50,000
9. Industrial parks, playgrounds, etc.	1,000,000	765,850
10. New aqueduct	600,000	None
11. Sewer plant	1,900,000	950,000
12. Hospital extension	4,500,000	2,411,500
13. New Art	5,000,000	50,000
14. Plaza and boulevards	6,000,000	160,770
15. Fire Dept.	772,000	454,470
16. Grade roads	1,000,000	50,000
17. Free bridges	1,000,000	210,000
18. Other improvements	1,000,000	None
19. Public works	1,500,000	1,000,000
20. Waterworks	12,000,000	11,172,000
Total	857,872,500	824,750,754

In this great city improvement program for St. Louis, the projects for which appropriations have been made but which are not yet completed are: The $4,000,000 courthouse, now under way; the street lighting system, which is virtually half completed; the River Des Peres drainage works, for which more than a third of the funds available have been expended; extension of water works, for which nearly half of the $11,172,000 appropriation has been spent; and hospital extensions, for which more than half of the funds available has been expended.

In addition to the construction work provided by the $60,000,000 bond issue which will reach its maximum activity in 1927, it is estimated that the reconstruction of scores of blocks of buildings, due to these municipal improvements will amount to about $450,000,000 in the next few years. St. Louis, therefore, can look forward to a period of unusual construction activity for some time to come.

RIVER BILL WILL BE BIG BOOST FOR ST. LOUIS

The $70,000,000 authorization bill for new rivers and harbors projects, passed recently by the Senate, is one of the best gifts St. Louis has ever had according to James E. Smith, sponsor of deep waterway systems and president of the Mississippi Valley Association.

As of huge importance to St. Louis, among the new improvements authorized Smith listed:

The nine-foot "Lakes to the Gulf" waterway, connecting St. Louis with Chicago and the Great Lakes by water.

The intramural canal linking the Mississippi and the Federal Barge Canal from St. Louis with Corpus Christi and the Texas Gulf Coast.

A survey for a nine-foot channel between St. Louis and the Twin Cities, where a Government upper Mississippi barge line to begin operation this coming spring, Smith added that the attitude of the Engineers has finally assured approval of this project.

A nine-foot channel in the Missouri to Kansas City, tapping the Missouri-Kansas grain district where a fund of nearly $1,000,000 awaits only completion of the project to put a barge line on the river.

A dredged and widened channel for the Mississippi between St. Louis and Cairo, the section which has hampered the Federal barge line since its inauguration.

ST. LOUIS SECOND IN PER CAPITA VALUE OF MANUFACTURERS

Only one other city has greater per capita value of manufactured products. St. Louis is in second place. That was the result announced recently when a comparison was made of the larger metropolitan centers on a per capita basis. This means that St. Louis ranks next to the city in the general wealth and prosperity of its citizens. The figures used in the computation were taken from the United States Government Biennial Census of Manufactures. Statisticians have always looked upon the value of manufacturing products as an index to the purchasing power of a community. When these figures are reduced to a per capita basis it furnishes a measuring stick for the determining of relative standards among cities.

ST. LOUIS HAS NEW $8,000,000 LIGHTING SYSTEM

The first large units of the most modern type of electric street lights, consisting of 2579 standards, provided under the $8,000,000 bond issue item, was recently flashed on. The lights were turned on by the Mayor of St. Louis speaking through a radio wire Pittsburgh and through a radio wire St. Louis. When this new lighting system is completed, there will be no finer nor more modern city illumination in America, than that of St. Louis.

The BILLIONAREA

the Greater St. Louis Market

The BILLIONAREA the Greater St. Louis Market

The Billionarea is an actual market, not a mythical or imaginary zone. A million people live within its boundaries. They have an annual purchasing power of more than a billion dollars. Within The Billionarea, population, purchasing power and newspaper coverage are so concentrated that volume selling is possible at less cost than in practically any other metropolitan market.

A Billion Dollar Market! —concentrated in 16x21 Miles

Sales Managers face the necessity not only of selling the volume which the profitable factory must have—but also of securing that volume at the lowest possible selling cost.

The phrase, "billion dollar market," gives the Sales Manager a picture of sufficient volume to absorb a large portion of his factory's production. It also gives a contrasting picture! In his mind he compares it with another area the size, say, of an entire state—with scores of salesmen to cover it—sleeper fares; hotel expenses; many jumps; more traveling time than selling time; and a period of many weary weeks to cover the territory even once.

The Billionarea Is Quickly Covered, Economically Sold

Any Sales Manager knows that the measure of a real market opportunity is not population size alone, but population size concentrated for economical selling.

Although the million people in The Billionarea earn and spend more than a Billion Dollars annually, the entire market can be traversed by automobile in 30 minutes in one direction, 45 in the other.

Though The Billionarea consumes products of all kinds on an enormous scale, it is compact enough to be covered thoroughly and often by salesmen at a truly economical cost.

Effective Newspaper Coverage to Produce Volume Sales

To the advertiser, the compactness of The Billionarea offers still another advantage. The entire market is covered by one newspaper so completely that merchandise can be moved in volume without duplication of advertising cost.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch reaches practically every family of buying consequence in the entire area. This extraordinarily complete circulation coverage—in excess of that of any other St. Louis newspaper—brings to the Post-Dispatch far more national, local and classified advertising than is carried by any other St. Louis newspaper.

COTTON ALAYS FEARS OF FARM OVERPRODUCTION

PRODUCE MARKETS

BY HARPER LEECH.
There is any artificial system of controlling the prices of farm products by holding and export control, or both, would produce runaway prices if production will likely be alayed if the fearful will study the figures and charts on cotton production, consumption, population growth, and the increase of cotton manufacturing facilities as revealed in the statistics of spinners in place.

These figures show that there are wide variations in cotton production from year to year, but that in the long run production has not increased much faster than population, nor has the utilization of cotton spindles increased at such greater rate. Evidently the factors which have affected both cotton and textile manufacturing are probably the result of "short swing" in production. There is no inherent tendency to overproduction in the nature of permanent excess of production ahead of needs as indicated by population growth.

These facts are very significant. Cotton is probably our most unmanageable crop. The large percentage of it exported, the sensitivity to weather conditions, and the ease with which its production may suddenly expand all make it potentially more subject to regulation than many other commodities. It is difficult to name in a formal bond contract, it is difficult to defend his title in a court of law, and the identity of the parties involved is often specified in the contract.

REPORTS OF CORN BORER FACTOR IN GRAIN ADVANCE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Discovery of the corn borer in Kankakee county, Illinois, was a factor in strengthening all grain markets. Corn advanced 1% @ 1½¢ over the finish of Wednesday, with May 1.25¢, while May 1.30¢ and July 1.17¢ were 1.27¢ each. While corn was 1½¢ higher, with May 75¢ and July 83¢, oats were up 4¢, with May 49¢ and July 47¢, and rye higher, with May 93¢ and July 97¢.

There was no material progress on the wheat market, and with foreign sales, Liverpool being up 1¢ to 14¢ on easier Argentina offerings, and a better cash demand, local traders were inclined to cover short. Resting orders to sell around $1.81 for May checked the upturn, but the under-tones was firmer than for several days.

Seaboard Takes Cash Wheat.

Indications are for a reduction in local wheat stocks, as around 175,000 bu red wheat has been ordered out for shipment to Philadelphia, and with the rates, a premium on spot was firm, with red wheat up as much as 1¢ as compared with May, and hard winter 1¾¢. The seaboard reported a better foreign demand with sales of 890,000 bu, with the basis at the gulf firmer, 40,000 bu. No. 2 hard selling at 11¢ over May, for No. 2 soft at 10¢ over May.

Mills were reported as buying futures at Kansas City while exporters were on the buying side at Winnipeg. Latter market gained ½¢ for the day. Broomhall's Argentine agent reiterated his belief that the exportable surplus would be 160,000,000 bu, while N. C. Murray, who had recently left this country, told of the excellent quality of the crop. Argentine exports for the week aggregated 75,000 bu, being smaller than expected, comparing with 82,000 bu the previous week, and 83,000 bu last year.

Brodhead Trade in Corn.

There was a noticeable broadening in the trade in corn, and with persistent buying headed by several local professionals, who had some help from price operators and commodity houses, the market was fairly well held, the price easily attained. The report of the corn borer, being found in the heart of the Illinois corn belt was a big factor in bringing in buying orders, and a letter put out by Riordan, Martin & Co., taking a decidedly bullish view of the general situation, the high price of investment being noted. The reaction of the outside figures was due to selling by a local operator.

There is no prospect of an embargo on the movement of shelled corn in the west, as quarantine regulations heretofore have specified that the movement of shelled corn, when clean, was practically without restriction, the individual firms' spot demand was fair with the trade steady to 10 higher, while country offerings to arrive were small.

Action of the oats market was largely a reflection of that in corn, with a little

BULLS AND BEARS BATTLE TO DRAW IN STOCK MARKET

YESTERDAY'S AVERAGES

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The battle between opposing speculative forces in the stock market today reached a deadlock, with neither side able to break the market out of the narrow trading area of the last few days.

Bullish operations based on a lowering of call money rates failed to make much headway, whereas the bears, stressing the new complications in the Chinese and Mexican situation, met with no real success in their endeavor to unsettle the general list. Call money remained at 4% per cent, as against 5 yesterday, and then dropped to 4%, closing at the bottom. This was the lowest since the middle of last October and was generally accepted as proof of an easy credit situation.

Trade Chiefly Professional.
Trading was again largely professional in character, although pools worked hard to attract a public following in several specialties. Minor recessions were again recorded by such firms as U. S. Steel, Ford Motor, and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Selling pressure was directed soon after the opening against the Pan-American issue and American Smelting, presumably on the reported decision of President Calles to increase gasoline and tobacco taxes and the latest development in the Nicaraguan situation, but early

Keeping Pace with Our Business

1926 recorded the largest volume of business ever transacted by the Heitman Bond & Mortgage Company in any twelve month period since its incorporation in 1913. In fact, the large volume handled enabled us to deposit $200,000 with the Auditor of Public Accounts to qualify under the Trust Laws to act as a Trust Company, and accordingly, we have changed our corporate name to HEITMAN TRUST COMPANY.

The high principles which have always governed the selection of our Chicago First Mortgages and First Mortgage Bonds will continue to be enforced.

In addition, we have added a Trust Department for the benefit of our many customers.

Call, write or phone for our present list of First Mortgage offerings.

How to Create an Estate

Large estates are not created by saving, though saving is an absolute necessity and must come first.

—not by speculation, for its losses are far greater than its gains, and the gains, when acquired, are seldom retained.

—not by investing in bonds—though the buying of sound bonds should be a part of every investment program, the keystone which holds the arch of financial progress in place.

Large estates are created by seizing opportunities for profitable investments in the stocks of industrial companies whose past record of success and present growth presage still greater progress and larger profits in the future.

Not everyone can have his own business. Not everyone possesses the capital, managerial talent, or temperamental equipment to make this possible. But everyone can share in the ownership of profitable industries and reap his share of their rewards, by carefully planned investments in their stocks.

Our booklet, "Sharing in the Profits of American Industry", tells how this may be done. Your request for a copy will entail no obligation on your part.

An Opportunity

For An Experienced Salesman to Enter the Investment Bond Business

A unusual opportunity to enter the investment field as representative of one of the oldest general investment bond houses in the Middle West, is offered by a client of ours to a thoroughly experienced salesman with a record and personality qualifying him for success in the bond business.

The man desired possesses sales ability of a high order and will be able to show a record of exceptional production in his previous connections. Successful experience in the sale of a service or commodity retailing for $1000 or more is highly desirable, and a good knowledge of bonds and investments will be helpful, though not absolutely essential.

The position offers an excellent opportunity for executive preferment, and the immediate compensation will be attractive enough to warrant a move of the bond salesman to the Middle West.

The City of New York yesterday sold $60,000,000 of its corporate 4% per cent stock at a premium of $18,540,000.

The highest bid was $100 per share, which is equivalent to a 4.11 per cent yield basis.

The previous issue of stock, about a year ago, was sold at a much smaller premium and on a 4.18% basis.

The present stock will be offered to investors at 10% and interest.

The investment in corporate securities also is indicated by the monthly report of the New York stock exchange on brokers' loans. The total on Dec. 31, was $2,292,850,000, an increase of $182,650,000 over Nov. 30 and of $151,855,320 over Oct. 31.

Base in Cities Shows

Rising in the demand for credit following the turn of the year is shown in the weekly report of the Federal Reserve System. In the last week loans declined $77,445,000, open market bills increased $10,030,000, and government securities decreased $1,231,000. Deposits expanded $63,831,000, with member bank reserves increasing $37,909,000 and government deposits declining $22,128,000.

Note circulation dropped $4,431,000, gold reserves fell $1,020,000, and total assets expanded $46,882,000 and $54,044,900, respectively. Reserve ratio of reserves to liabilities rose to 71 from 70.1 per cent a week ago.

The New York bank showed loans and bills increased $2,404,000 and $19,805,000, respectively. Deposits rose $49,632,000. Reserves increased $11,722,000 and interest rates fell to 7.75 per cent.

The Chicago bank showed loans and bills declined to $16,825,000 and $23,580,000, respectively. Deposits rose $11,623,000. The reserve ratio rose from 62.7 to 65.5 per cent.

In the heart of America the big parade of progress is only beginning

Here prosperity is at home

ZONE 7 has become the richest of all America's great trading zones because it doesn't have to "play over its head" to make money. Its prosperity is rooted firmly in the wages of its well-paid labor, in the enormous return on its crops, in the sale of raw and manufactured products.

Here, during the years to come and particularly in 1927, are rich harvests of sales to be made. The richest will be reaped by advertisers. Those who sow their dollars in this zone should reap the exceptional harvests and break the most sales records.

You have something to sell. Zone 7 has plenty of money to buy. With an adequate campaign in this newspaper you can sway purchases in the 1,200,000 families who earned the major part of Zone 7's eight billion dollar net income during 1926.

1927 is bound to be good!

THIS will be a prosperous year in the Chicago Territory because its wealth is founded solidly in the definite prosperity of its people, the products of its soil and factories, the wages of its well-paid labor, indisputable prosperity demonstrated by its bank and savings deposits. Conservative analysis points to a figure in excess of eight billion dollars as the net income of the Chicago Territory for 1926—in wages, in crops, in the sale of raw and manufactured products.

WAGES . . . William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, says: "The coming year will be as good as, if not better than, 1926 . . . Because wages are high we can do our part in buying the articles industries are turning out in ever increasing quantities. Production is bound to be good." The total gross wages paid, including salaries, bonuses, and commissions, in 1926 in Zone 7 have been conservatively estimated at

The Ragged Edge

By HENRY C. ROWLAND.

SUMMARY.
Captain Boyd, owner and navigator of the yacht Rigel, anchored in the harbor at Hamilton, Bermuda, is about to start on a semi-scientific expedition around the world. He is accompanied by his sister, Carillon, and a party of scientists. Carillon meets Bengal, who has brought his yacht Gunra to Bermuda on her maiden cruise, and she asks him to go along with the Rigel. Obtaining Boyd's consent, Dodd asks Jim Howland, a former district attorney of New York, if he can help Carillon clear herself of the suspicion. Bengal is a crewman, and he decides to do everything in his power to help Carillon clear herself of the suspicion. He assumes Mrs. Ransom's name, who formerly worked for Carillon. While Boyd and Dodd are in Hamilton working on a new, Mrs. Ransom, accompanied by Irma, comes aboard the Rigel and assures Captain that she is certain of her innocence and tells her she is free to leave or stay whenever she pleases. The two men start off agreeing to meet at Port of Prince. They never get out beyond sight of the Rigel. They are lost and become separated. Bengal finds that she has been abandoned. Following a search found on the chart he takes the gun and, accompanied by Gertrude, makes for Verde Cay, an uninhabited island. Howland comes to navigate the Gunra to Ragged Island and wait there for the Rigel. Bengal is now alone and runs ashore at a tiny bay after instructing Gertrude to take the Rigel to Ragged Island and bring back help. He encounters one of Carillon's captors, whom he kills, and continues on his way. He reaches the shore with the dead man's body and finds a full bag of game, which he hides in the crevices of rock. He continues on his way, searching for the Rigel. He finds her on her captor's boat. All the men of the Rigel have been abandoned on Ragged Island.

INSTALLMENT XXX.
CARILLON TELLS HER STORY.

Possibly there were more in the bandit band than Bengal had thought. And there could be no question of their armament. Also he had noticed another awning spread over the after part of the cabin cruiser, not slung but lying loose. There might be a one pounder under that.

Bengal crept into the cabin cruiser, where he had placed Carillon. He had himself with his back against the rock, invisible from the entrance to the place. He did not mean to sleep, but merely to relax profoundly for a few moments, to ease down the muscular and nervous tensions of the past few hours, that they might better take up what strains might be ahead. But he had not properly estimated the tremendous output of physical and nervous energy already expended, and the crying demands of complete repose. His head pitched forward, chin on chest. Sleep descended on him like a tropic night.

Bengal may be severely criticized for relaxing his vigilance at all in a moment of such critical danger, and when under such responsibility.

His defense would be appreciated by a sailor, or campaigner of experience. The normal human can function vigorously and keenly only for so long, with out a brief interval of repose. Lacking this, his senses become dulled, and if a long and silent night watch is required, his perceptions will not remain

'Alaskan Adventures' One Film to See.

"ALASKAN ADVENTURES"

Photographed by Jack Robertson and Presented at McVicker's theater.

BY RUTH NANGLE.

Just after Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton have brought "We're in the Navy Now" to an uproarious finish, a three-reeler, called "Alaskan Adventures," slides on the screen at McVicker's. And if you're a bit weary of the city with its crowded streets and its eternally noisy traffic, you'll find this new picture to be a restful and healing as a breath of fresh, pine-laden air.

Jack Robinson, hunter and explorer, and Art Young, a bow and arrow champion, ventured up the Yukon and into the Arctic circle to see all that is to be seen in this far flung stretch of Uncle Sam's frontier. The film they brought back has all the beauty of wide snow-covered vistas and all the thrill of rushing, roaring waterfalls.

They found much that is new and intriguing to this city child. Gliding across the barren land, they encountered vast herds of reindeer and caribou roaming undisturbed over the broad prairies. One placidly pretty shot shows a graceful moose taking her calf to water in the soft, fresh dawn.

Not so graceful, but equally picturesque, are the seals and polar bear, which are fashioned like the ones we have not. Walking or sleeping he possessed a singularly accurate sense of control which never sleeps to rouse him at the near presence of any danger, whether of animal or elemental sort, an enemy or a hard squash making up, a burglar in the house or a fire smoldering from a short circuit under the walls, pine-laden air.

In the present case he reasoned also that the enemy would be sharp about venturing into such a watery lair as was here. Irma had been given a sample of his resource and his ruthlessness. For all she and the others with her knew he might have set his trap and be waiting hopefully for them to spring it.

But what he had failed to reckon with sufficiently was his overwhelming nature and the intensely hypnotic effect of that warm humid air, the scorching murmur of the ripples on the beach, and the fact that he had eaten to satiation.

With his shoulders resting against a smooth slab of rock, Bengal slept on. So also did Carillon, who had passed gently from the coma of exhaustion into the restful sleep of childhood. No doubt if some pressing danger had actually threatened, Bengal would have wakened in time for a bitter defense. But it did not. His subconscious mind may have whispered to him: "All is well. Not a good night's sleep, perhaps, but still good enough for the present. The immediate danger has passed."

Bengal awoke with a start and glanced down at Carillon. She was sleeping lightly now, her breathing soft and gentle.

It did not need the greater depth of shadow in the place to tell Bengal that he had been guilty of a long lapes of active consciousness. He rose and waded over the sheltering surf of the beach, and the water was to be seen but very little sky above the water of a pale topaz greenish blue.

He waded round toward Carillon. She looked up, dazedly at first and then as her eyes rested on Bengal with a flood of returning consciousness.

"Bungle—what's happened? Where are we?"

With his soul singing anthem of thanksgiving and praise to the Lord for this miracle, Bengal answered: "Waiting for Rigel to come back with a party and raise the siege, my dear. How do you feel?" And in due time, signing a confession that Irma had stolen his jewels. Even worse, the one they called Tony wouldn't let me sleep. One of them was detailed to keep urging me to write a statement. If I kept silent or got drown they slapped and pinched me, and pulled my hair. Irma was the worst."

"The third degree. Tony understood the workings of that from personal experience. Do you remember my bringing you here?"

"Only in spots. Those last days in the sun. She suddenly became aware of her dismembered state. 'Mama, I'm nearly naked!' A rosy color came to her face. "What's happened to my dress—?"

"It was torn to ribbons when you tried to run away through the thorn bushes. I made Irma use the rags to bandage the cuts."

"I remember something about that. Where is she?"

"I wish I knew. Keep down behind the rock, Carillon. There may be somebody waiting for a chance to snipe at us. You're safe now. The sank back, then leaped up and him and laughed. Again Bengal's soul rejoiced. Here was the cool invincible Carillon back again.

"Then all that happened, from the start," he said.

"It's like a bad dream, Bungle. We were just finishing dinner and the yacht drifting along with a light easterly breeze. Gran wanted to make the most of the sail alone. Professor Brooks had told us it was the best time, so we were having a little party, champagne and everything. I'd put on my prettiest gown, next to nothing, as it was so hot, and—she hesitated.

Bengal, standing at her face, was puzzled at the curious expression in her eyes.

"And what?" he asked, gently.

"My—my jewels. The few I had aboard. I—I shouldn't have done that, after what had happened. Well, just as Gran was proposing a little toast to Calvin Brooks, the steward reported that there was a burly man in a blue uniform standing by the wheel. He saluted and said, 'Sir, I'm sorry, but he would have to come aboard and look over our property, as some jewel thieves were reported to have come from Bremen in a yacht that answered the description of ours.'

"Clever," Bengal muttered.

"Yes, wasn't it? Granville thought, of course that Mrs. Ransom had done what she could do to the case against me, and he scarcely had time to be surprised or frightened. I could see that he wasn't sure, but that I had stolen them after all. They laid the boat alongside, for the sea was like a millpond, and when all were with four others were aboard. The moment I saw these others I knew Granville had something fishy about the business, but it was too late for us to do anything. They were all armed. They trooped below, and—Carillon's voice hardened. They found Mrs. Ransom's jewels."

"Where?"

"In the box spring of my bunk. It's a real French bed."

"Who put them there?"

"I'm afraid I did. That evening she and Mrs. Ransom went aboard."

Marriage Suffers if the Emotions Have Been Frittered Away

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The modern maid dismisses with a contemptuous shrug any one so old fashioned and silly as to criticize her harmless pastime — kissing. There isn't any more to it, she argues, than there is to shaking hands, passing the time of day, or commenting upon the weather. It is just a habit, conventionalized now by common indulgence.

Any one who has kissed and shaken hands knows that the worst you can get out of the latter is a tired arm. Psychologists are stepping up to inform the world that you can't kiss every bear that comes along in the course of a season without doing a certain amount of damage to the emotions. They explain one reason the seasons why so many marriages fail is that this promiscuous kissing habit reduces the girl's power to love. It blunts her emotional sense.

Maybe some young women do kiss with no more emotional expenditure than they'd use in a talk about the weather. Maybe some of them aren't looking for a thrill. But it is pretty hard to convince me, for one, that the emotions are held strictly aloof when we set lips to lips. It isn't nature's makeup. And I firmly believe, with the psychologists, that frequent indulgence where the motive is only a fleeting pleasure eventually dissipates the capacity to feel a deep and lasting affection for one particular individual. It is simply the old rule you can't have your cake and eat it. You can't spend yourself in emotional affairs and keep the emotional equipment which must be the foundation for a happy marriage.

When Lillian was married a year ago to Leonard, a hard working, brilliant young writer, the friends of both

George McKinlocks Depart Monday for Palm Beach Place

BY NANCY R.

At last George McKinlocks have their arrangements completed for going to their beautiful Spanish house, Casa Alejandro, at Palm Beach. They are to start their southern journey the first of next week, on Monday if nothing interferes.

Mrs. Muriel McCormick, who was to have gone south with them, has decided to make a visit first with her aunt, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, in Boston, before she journeys to the land of orange and hibiscus, and will accompany her to the east on Monday, when Mrs. McCormick finished her sojourn here with her brother-in-law, Cyrus Hall McCormick.

Probably the largest gathering Mrs. McCormick will attend in this part of the world is the dinner the young Mrs. McCormicks are giving this evening before the Twelfth Night ball.

Mrs. Cyrus, by the bye, is one of those graceful hostesses who follows the custom of sending out cards to invite all the regulars, including those of the entertainments, and the occasion of her entertainments, so as to insure no vacant places at her exquisitely laid tables—a wise precaution in this day of headlines and casual guests!

Well, well, the Countess of Suffolk's skin shingle is the cause of much admiration. It's most becoming to her, close cropped at the back of her head, with the sides loosely waved and lying over her ears.

She was a striking figure yesterday at the luncheon given the English-speaking Union by the Hon. Stanhope Bruce, premier of Australia. Clad in a striped black satin frock, with a snub fitting black hat (impossible to wear before she did away with her long dark locks), and with a sable scarf over her shoulders, the former Dame Lester sat at the right end of the table, and carried on an animated conversation with him and the others at the table. She is tall and handsome, and the years have added a sturdiness that is most eye-catching.

Among the others at the luncheon I saw Lord Estlin, Mr. and Mrs. James McPherson, Mrs. Charles L. Strobel, Mrs. Frederic Upshur, Mrs. Silvia Strawn, Henry J. Patten, Victor Eliing, and Jack Judson.

Day's News in Society

If the stock of one of the town consumers, who has been supplying units for society's fancy dress balls for many a year, holds out, there will be no less than 39 Marie Antoinettes at the annual Twelfth Night ball, to be held this evening. Guests are to receive their tickets and information regarding the whereabouts of the various "Maries." Details and costumes for the affair are to be worked out with a French revolutionary motif, and if they compare with the Twelfth Night committee's previous affairs they will be marvels of effectiveness and distinction. A number of dinner parties are to precede the ball, which probably will not begin until after 11 o'clock.

The elements have played havoc with Mrs. Harry Hyde Barnum's plans for the debutante winter sports party she was to have given at the Indian Hill Country club this evening for Miss Judith Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Michael W. Walsh of Howard Woods. She had planned the affair for two weeks, until Friday, Jan. 21, when the party will take place, snow or no snow.

Mrs. James A. Patten is to be hosted at a tea to be given at her residence this afternoon for members of the American Alpine Association from the western Universities. Receiving with Mrs. Patten will be Mrs. Perkins B. Bass, Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, and Mrs. Carlton H. Pendleton. Mrs. Thomas Moulding, Mrs. Joseph Halsted, Mrs. James F. Gates, and Mrs. Clyde D. Foster are to pour.

Mrs. Morette Dickinson is to be honored this afternoon at the first of a series of teas being given by the Gordon on Fridays during January. Miss Cyrena Van Gordon is to be a guest.

Mrs. George Butter Magoun of 74 East Walton place is to give a tea to Elizabeth Jackson and Mrs. T. Webb whose engagement was announced this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding of 227 East Delaware place, spent several days in New York city before sailing on Tuesday for a trip abroad. They are to spend a month in Spain, and will return to Rome, to join Mr. Spaulding's mother, Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding.

Mr. and Mrs. Heylinger A. de Windt of Wimmette are to depart tomorrow, accompanied by Mrs. de Windt's father, John Hains Arnold, to spend five or six weeks in Biloxi, Miss.

Society at the Opera

A pleasant stir in the box circle in the first intermission of "Der Rosenkavalier" was caused by the entrance of Harold McCormick and his daughter, Muriel, with their guest, Mrs. Muriel McCormick, of New York. Other members of the box party included Mrs. Lawrence Vilas, Mrs. J. Newton Perry, Morris L. Johnston, and Col. George Voskoyecky.

The Cyrus Hall McCormicks were in the adjoining box with Mrs. Waller Borden.

Mr. Rockefeller McCormick was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCord, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell, and Edwin Krenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Stibb were hosts in the Charles H. Morse box. Their guests were Miss Hester White, Miss Eloise Re Quin, Sidway McKay, and Louis Watermeder.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham had Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Robinson as their guests.

Col. Francis T. A. Junkin and Mrs. Junkin were observed with a group in the body of the house, well down in front.

Mrs. George Carter Howland's box party consisted of Mrs. May Hagerty, Mrs. Helen Howland, Miss Cora Howland, Harold Hammond, and Felix Howland.

With Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne and Miss Katherine Thorne were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Holloman, Louis and Sherman P. Haughton, and Col. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Marie Rose, Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, and Col. Mitchell. Learned were together in a lower horseshoe box.

-AN I FOUND I DIDN'T HAVE TH' DARNED WRIST WATCH WITH ME!!!

BY NANCY R.

At last the George McKinlocks have their arrangements completed for going to their beautiful Spanish house, Casa Alejandro, at Palm Beach. They are to start their southern journey the first of next week, on Monday if nothing interferes.

Mrs. Muriel McCormick, who was to have gone south with them, has decided to make a visit first with her aunt, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, in Boston, before she journeys to the land of orange and hibiscus, and will accompany her to the east on Monday, when Mrs. McCormick finished her sojourn here with her brother-in-law, Cyrus Hall McCormick.

Probably the largest gathering Mrs. McCormick will attend in this part of the world is the dinner the young Mrs. McCormicks are giving this evening before the Twelfth Night ball.

Mrs. Cyrus, by the bye, is one of those graceful hostesses who follows the custom of sending out cards to invite all the regulars, including those of the entertainments, and the occasion of her entertainments, so as to insure no vacant places at her exquisitely laid tables—a wise precaution in this day of headlines and casual guests!

Well, well, the Countess of Suffolk's skin shingle is the cause of much admiration. It's most becoming to her, close cropped at the back of her head, with the sides loosely waved and lying over her ears.

She was a striking figure yesterday at the luncheon given the English-speaking Union by the Hon. Stanhope Bruce, premier of Australia. Clad in a striped black satin frock, with a snub fitting black hat (impossible to wear before she did away with her long dark locks), and with a sable scarf over her shoulders, the former Dame Lester sat at the right end of the table, and carried on an animated conversation with him and the others at the table. She is tall and handsome, and the years have added a sturdiness that is most eye-catching.

Among the others at the luncheon I saw Lord Estlin, Mr. and Mrs. James McPherson, Mrs. Charles L. Strobel, Mrs. Frederic Upshur, Mrs. Silvia Strawn, Henry J. Patten, Victor Eliing, and Jack Judson.

Day's News in Society

If the stock of one of the town consumers, who has been supplying units for society's fancy dress balls for many a year, holds out, there will be no less than 39 Marie Antoinettes at the annual Twelfth Night ball, to be held this evening. Guests are to receive their tickets and information regarding the whereabouts of the various "Maries." Details and costumes for the affair are to be worked out with a French revolutionary motif, and if they compare with the Twelfth Night committee's previous affairs they will be marvels of effectiveness and distinction. A number of dinner parties are to precede the ball, which probably will not begin until after 11 o'clock.

The elements have played havoc with Mrs. Harry Hyde Barnum's plans for the debutante winter sports party she was to have given at the Indian Hill Country club this evening for Miss Judith Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Michael W. Walsh of Howard Woods. She had planned the affair for two weeks, until Friday, Jan. 21, when the party will take place, snow or no snow.

Mrs. James A. Patten is to be hosted at a tea to be given at her residence this afternoon for members of the American Alpine Association from the western Universities. Receiving with Mrs. Patten will be Mrs. Perkins B. Bass, Mrs. Walter Dill Scott, and Mrs. Carlton H. Pendleton. Mrs. Thomas Moulding, Mrs. Joseph Halsted, Mrs. James F. Gates, and Mrs. Clyde D. Foster are to pour.

Mrs. Morette Dickinson is to be honored this afternoon at the first of a series of teas being given by the Gordon on Fridays during January. Miss Cyrena Van Gordon is to be a guest.

Mrs. George Butter Magoun of 74 East Walton place is to give a tea to Elizabeth Jackson and Mrs. T. Webb whose engagement was announced this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding of 227 East Delaware place, spent several days in New York city before sailing on Tuesday for a trip abroad. They are to spend a month in Spain, and will return to Rome, to join Mr. Spaulding's mother, Mrs. Howard H. Spaulding.

Mr. and Mrs. Heylinger A. de Windt of Wimmette are to depart tomorrow, accompanied by Mrs. de Windt's father, John Hains Arnold, to spend five or six weeks in Biloxi, Miss.

Society at the Opera

A pleasant stir in the box circle in the first intermission of "Der Rosenkavalier" was caused by the entrance of Harold McCormick and his daughter, Muriel, with their guest, Mrs. Muriel McCormick, of New York. Other members of the box party included Mrs. Lawrence Vilas, Mrs. J. Newton Perry, Morris L. Johnston, and Col. George Voskoyecky.

The Cyrus Hall McCormicks were in the adjoining box with Mrs. Waller Borden.

Mr. Rockefeller McCormick was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCord, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell, and Edwin Krenn.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Stibb were hosts in the Charles H. Morse box. Their guests were Miss Hester White, Miss Eloise Re Quin, Sidway McKay, and Louis Watermeder.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Burnham had Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Robinson as their guests.

Col. Francis T. A. Junkin and Mrs. Junkin were observed with a group in the body of the house, well down in front.

Mrs. George Carter Howland's box party consisted of Mrs. May Hagerty, Mrs. Helen Howland, Miss Cora Howland, Harold Hammond, and Felix Howland.

With Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thorne and Miss Katherine Thorne were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Holloman, Louis and Sherman P. Haughton, and Col. Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Marie Rose, Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell, and Col. Mitchell. Learned were together in a lower horseshoe box.

PEORIA FIGHTS ORDER TO CUT FARM LAND TAX

3 Other Counties Agree to Revaluation.

With three downstate counties practically agreed on reductions of farm land taxes, only Peoria county is holding out against the revaluation order of the Illinois tax commission. Chairman William H. Malone declared yesterday.

"I am hopeful that a compromise will be effected in Peoria which will be acceptable to both the farmers and the city people," Mr. Malone said. "The commission has given much evidence clearly pointing out that Peoria county farmers are overassessed some 10 per cent in comparison with city land owners. The commission asks only that justice be given to all taxpayers—that the burden be shared in proper proportion."

Massmeetings Protest Order.

Massmeetings are being held in Peoria in protest against compliance with the order. The Peoria commissioners of the boards of review in four counties—Peoria, Clay, Kane, and Franklin—to revalue their taxable property in more equitable manner toward the farmers. Most of the evidence favoring the decrease of farm valuations was presented by the Illinois Agricultural association.

In Kane county the board of review has agreed to reduce valuations on all farm properties 10 per cent. Clay county farmers have been offered 20 per cent, and are expected soon to accept the offer, though they are pressing for more. In Franklin county an agreement has been reached, Mr. Malone said. He has not yet received the details.

May Investigate Peoria Taxes.

"Peoria county should see the plight of the farmers just as clearly as these others have seen it," Mr. Malone said. "The Peoria board of review promised in both of two previous years to remedy the situation, and failed to do so, and so the commission was forced to take action. We hope that a definite agreement will be reached at once. If a percentage reduction is granted, there should be no change in the new values, new taxes, and collections than there is now."

"Should it become necessary, the tax commission may send a staff of investigators to Peoria to check up some of the valuations in the city, to see if they are equitable in proportion to the valuations levied on farm lands. No evidence has been submitted to this commission to indicate other than that the farmers are overburdened."

INDIANA TURNS DOWN KLAN RULE OF LEGISLATURE

Indians, Ind., Jan. 6.—(Special)—The Indiana legislature convened today with a man frankly anti-Klan as president of the senate and a speaker of the house elected over a Klan-supported candidate. In its annual message, however, Gov. Jackson, who rode to power on an Illinois Klan favorite in 1924, asserted that charges of wholesale political corruption, in so far as they concerned state officials, were not made in good faith and that there "is not a scintilla of creditable evidence upon which they can be sustained in any degree."

After devoting considerable time to discussion of the corruption investigation, Jackson recommended repeal of the absent voters law, but took issue with his own party platform and Indiana's United States senators by siding with former Senator Albert J. Beveridge in favoring retention of the direct primary for a better of suffrage.

James Neely, senate president pro tem, represents a northern Indiana industrial district. Speaker Harry Leslie left the rostrum in 1925 to oppose a Stephenson Klan measure aimed at the state highway commission. Both houses have strong Republican majorities, but Klan influence in the corruption scandals party forces are shaky. Republicans pushing the corruption investigation plan to the legislature to start a state probe.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: And Just Then

Elmer Diverted by an Unusual Night on Radio

(Friday, Jan. 7.)

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Standard Time Throughout.)

I N the first of a series of "Old Time Prisefights" to be broadcast at 8 o'clock tonight by W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TIMES station on the Drake hotel, the battle between John L. Sullivan and Jake Kilrain will be revisited before the microphone. Listeners will have an opportunity to hear the epic encounter much as they might have heard it back in 1889 had radio existed. Quin Ryan will give a preliminary description of the scene and the contestants and will tell the blow by blow of the fight. There will also be heard the shouts of the spectators at the ringside.

At 9 o'clock the program of the popular symphony orchestra known as the Anglo-Persians will be brought from New York by wire and broadcast by W-G-N. These programs, which reach appreciative listeners each Friday evening, are especially arranged by W-G-N.

The Christmas cantata, "Chimes of the Holy Night," (Holton), by the Grace Evangelical church choir, WLIB, 7:15 to 7:30, was a satisfying broadcast. A sacred cantata as tuneful and thoroughly joyous as this one is not circumscribed by seasonal restrictions for general enjoyment. The male and female voices came over in fifty-fifty tonal values. Almost invariably in choir broadcasts the female voices are allowed to predominate, with the result that there is lacking the substance and sonority that was distinctly noticeable during the singing of this cantata.

WLIB was wire locked with WJZ, New York, from 7 to 9, with a series of programs of sometimes more and sometimes less interest, and W-G-N likewise, while locked from 8 to 10, with about the same variable type of popular miscellany—the choice sometimes being with one station and sometimes with the other.

Had I realized at the time what I now realize I undoubtedly would have heard all night long Clyde Allee's series on "Social Life Among Animals" WMAQ, 8:30 to 9:15. That portion heard was literally filled with interest.

Morgan L. Eastman, a schoolmaster, and Edison studio staff artists, as well as the WGN band, were on WGN, 9 to 10:30. I found in many moments of witty, sometimes homespun laughter. I finally came to the conclusion that it wasn't a bad stunt, though I didn't like the laughing by the women artists.

Holds Ex-Church Worker on Dry Laundry Charge

Clarence C. Martin, 50, of 6621 Kimball avenue, formerly active in church work at Hammond, Ind., was held to the grand jury under $2,500 bonds yesterday by Municipal Judge John F. Pekar, who said he had paid his fee.

Mr. Martin, 50, was charged with obtaining money while posing as a relative of Mrs. Mary Bailey, an assistant United States attorney in charge of liquor injunction cases. The complainant, Joseph Michelin, 500 North Franklin street, testified he paid Martin $150 under the belief that a government ban on his restaurant would be removed.

After devoting considerable time to discussion of the corruption investigation, Jackson recommended repeal of the absent voters law, but took issue with his own party platform and Indiana's United States senators by siding with former Senator Albert J. Beveridge in favoring retention of the direct primary for a better suffrage.

James Neely, senate president pro tem, represents a northern Indiana industrial district. A SALESMAN.

who recognizes the advantages of selling on a commission basis. We are not looking for the safety type of salesman who wants to be guaranteed against himself, because we would be afraid to hire him for the reason that he knows himself better than we know him.

We have no $25,000 jobs for salesmen. No salesmen can become one of our executives in a month. We are not looking for the quick, slick, cleanup salesman. We do not sell real estate, books, insurance, etc.

We do have average salesmen earning $8,000 yearly.

We do promote salesmen with sales records to executives.

We are looking for several men with specialty selling experience for central west territory, in and near Chicago.

Let's get down to "brass tacks." We only want to interview salesmen who are sincere in their desire to make a permanent connection.

Remember, no quick clean-ups here, but an opportunity which you will immediately recognize after talking it over with us.
